EXPERIENCE INCLUDED

Today's marketplace creates both opportunities and headaches. The difference between one and the other is often "know how" - the ability to get things done the right way, based on years of actually doing it. That ability is valuable in just about every business, but it is critical for success in contract packaging.

With over 30 years of experience, Custom Packaging has a proven track record of superior performance and a list of satisfied customers who require flexibility and high quality services. Whether serving as part of the regular supply chain or handling a repacking project with tight specifications, Custom Packaging has the expertise, equipment, and personnel to get the job done as well as a tradition of doing it the right way.

HEADACHES WRAPPED-UP

Custom Packaging provides complete contract packaging services to a variety of businesses including marketing agencies, entrepreneurs, paper manufacturers, printers, and food processors. These companies know Custom Packaging will meet their expectations: high quality services, good inventory control, competitive pricing, and on-time delivery.

"Whether it is a problem job or an everyday packaging need, our goal is always the same," explains Mike Samol, General Manager for Custom Packaging, a 30 year veteran of the packaging industry. "Make our customers look good to their customers. Over the years, we've made a lot of companies look good."
